When the eminently respectable and nighly conservative universities of Cohighly conservative universities of Co-lumbia and Pennsylvania initiated Juan Sacasa and Seydel Vaca into the art of healing, probably no one connected with those institutions ever suspected that these two mild-man-nered young physicians one day would cause Secretary Kellogg to sit up nights, call out the United States navy and marines, stir diplomatic represen-tatives of Great Britain and Italy to appeals for protection, menace Ameri-can rights in a non-existant canal and send a seasoned admiral of the United send a seasoned admiral of the United States navy scurrying about a neighboring country chasing a ragged little army with detachments of bluejackets. This is the only "revolution on record led by physicians. Furthermore, Drs. Y., to find the present and only Mrs. Vaca, an American girl, his four children, three sons and one daughter, were born and reared in the shadow of Independence hall.

Vaca was born at Chinandega, Nicaragua, 45 years ago. He came to the United States in 1904, and was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania Medical school in 1906. Until the present "unpleasantness" arose in Nicaragua, and Dr. Vaca was thrust into the foreground here, he was leading the quiet and respectable life of the physician, free from all political entanglements and social "isms."

Dr. Vaca's appearance is as disarming as his frankness of expression and his quick sense of humor. There is much of the idealist and little of the practical politician in those mild eyes that smile out at his interrogators from under a somewhat ruffled thatch of dark hair, now liberally splashed to the platform of complete nationalization of the bank and railroad. This railroad was built by the Nicaraguan people before the bank got there.

"The intrigue then began on the part of certain New York bankers to regain possession of these two properties. The interest that the bankers had in the railroad had been completely paid in cash by the Nicaraguan government. They received approximately $1,750,000 in American money for their 51 per cent interest. They paid

Hints thrown out some days ago by Senator Borah that both conservative and liberal factions here were receiving aid and support from American quarters here in Washington drew a smile from Dr. Vaca.

Capital News of Interest To Atlanta and Georgia

BY SAM W. SMALL.

Special Staff Correspondent.

Washington, January 6.—People in Atlanta were busy last December writing letters, sending Christmas cards and presents. The information bureau of the postoffice department issues a bulletin of postaff receipts in December at 50 selected cities throughout the country, and Atlanta led all the cities in the percentage of increased receipts with 21.70 per cent over December, 1925. Dayton, Ohio, was next with 18.40 per cent, and Fort Worth, Texas with 14.90 per cent.

The receipts at Atlanta were $460.151.20 as against $378,105 in December, 1925, the increase being $82.046.20. The per cent increase over 1925 of 21.70 compared with the increase of 12.82 in December, 1925, over same month in 1924 and 6.55 in December, 1924, ever same month in cember, 1924, ever same month in

The report indicates that the Amer can people spent over three million dollars more for postage in last De-cember than in that month of 1925. All of which is an index figure of the general feeling of prosperity that pos-sesses the mass of our countrymen.

The farm loan board reports the status of farm loans by the 12 federal intermediate credit banks on December 18 last. The largest volume of loans was to cotton $21,106,779.04, which was about 42 per cent of the total volume of direct loans. The bank at Columbia which includes Georgia in its area made direct loans of $8,429,-250, being the largest in any of the 12 areas except that covered by the bank at New Orleans. The Columbia rediscounts were $7,443,765.03, which made the total operations mount to $15,-873,015.03, or a sum larger by two and a half millions than in any other of the dozen discricts.

The 12 federal reserve banks also reported showing for 1926 gross earnings of $47,600,600; net earnings $16,610,000. Four of the banks, those at Boston, Richmond, Minneapolis and Kansas City had net earnings above subscribed capital and paid back into the federal treasury $818,150.51 as franchise taxes. The net earnings in 1926 were $7,260,000 more than in 1925. The total subscribed capital of the 12 banks on January 1, 1927, was $249,628,000 and their combined surplus was $228,775,000.

The attorneys general of 27 states are of counsel for W. G. Potts, treasurer of the state of Washington, in a case before the supreme court of the United States, in which two owners and operators of motor cars using the federal aided highways of the state contend for an injunction to prevent the collection of an excise tax on gasoline. They claim that the act of congress providing financial assistance to states in the construction of post roads stipulates that "all roads constructed under the provision of this act shall be free from tolls of all kinds" and that when a state accepts that act and the federal aid money it cannot lawfully impose and collect a gasoline tax from th: users of the road, because such tax takes the character of a toll tax. If the supreme court shall hold that the gasoline tax is a toll the decision will affect every state now collecting such gallon taxes and seriously impede the general work of highway construction. Hence the presence of more than half the states by their attorneys general in the case.

He told the proprietor what he wanted done, and gave instructions that the shoes be delivered to an ushe: at the motion picture the atter across the street. With the shoes still on his feet, accompanied by a small boy, he entered the theater, took off his shoes without diverting anyone's attention from the screen, and sent the lad back to the repairman with his shoes. Some time later an usher handed him his renovated footwear.

Revelation of the successful application of a 22-meter wave length for trans-Atlantic communication came today when officials of the American Telephone and Telegraph company confirmed reports that their engineers had rigged up an emergency circuit to support the regular air line on the 5,000-meter wave length.

It was stated that the short and long wave circuits were working perfectly today, communication being conducted over both simultaneously. Which one of these circuits the "first caller" will use tomorrow is not known.

INDIAN TO FIGHT

Philadelphia, January 6.—(P)—
Postponement until tomorrow of the opening of the legal fight to determine whether the American Indian is a "foreigner" was announced tonight by Adrian Bonnelly, counsel for the Iroquois nation.

Mr. Bonnelly had planned to file in the federal district court an application for a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Paul Diabo, an Iroquois of the Caughnawaga reservation, in Canada, who was to have been brought to immigration headquarters here today for deportation. The postponement was caused by the non-arrival of the deportation papers from Washington until after the court had adjourned for the day.

Diabo was arrested last March charged with entering this country without a passport. The immigration authorities ordered his deportation and their ruling was upheld by the secretary of labor's board of review.

Mr. Bonnelly said he hoped to es-tablish the right of the Indian to en-ter his native land despite the ruling subjecting him to the immigration act of 1924. He added that a fund had been raised by the Iroquois nation to carry the case to the United States supreme court if necessary.

Chicago. January 6.—Unwritten alliance among the English-speaking people of the United States and the British empire, based on common thoughts and ideals that they will act together to preservs those ideals and the peace of the world if a new crisis threatens, was urged here today by Premier Stanley Melbourne Bruce, of Australia. He talked before the English Speaking union at the Hotel Lassalle.

The League of Nations, he said, was not strong enough to prevent a war among the great powers, but such a union as he proposed would be. He said Australia was as much opposed to "entangling alliances" as is America. He asked that any rancor due to the American revolution be forgotten and that the people of this country look at the new British empire. He explained how the dominions now have a voice not granted before in foreign policy and this voice is in accord with the democratic spirit of the United States.

England could not make war except in a cause considered just and right by its dominions, he said, and then it would get the support of the farflung commonwealths, a supreme sacrifice and unity.

Washington, January 6 .- (A)-Big navy" men of the house today forced through an appropriation for another huge dirigible for the navy but were unsuccessful in two other attempts to override wishes of the esident and the budget bureau.

After the house, by a vote of 132 69, had adopted an amendment to the naval supply bill to provide $200,-000 for initial construction of a rigid airship thrice the size of the Los Angeles, it defeated two other amendments which would have increased the navy's airplane strength. One of the proposals, which were sponsored by Representative Vinson, c. Georgia, ranking democrat on the naval committee, would have increased by more than $7,000,000 the fund for purchase of new airplanes.

It was voted down 65 to 80, while the other Vinson amendment, to appropriate more than $4,000,000 to provide 75 planes for the new carriers Lexington and Saratoga, was lost without a record vote.

Lexington and Saratoga, was lost without a record vote.

The fight over the dirigible, on an amendment by Representative Begg, republican, Ohio, waged for more than two hours and produced first test of strength on the measure. In adopting it the house disregarded the president's wish expressed in his budget that ampropriations for the measure that appropriations for the two dirigibles authorized last year be held up pending experiments with allmetal airships.

When the fight over the dirigible and airplanes dragged through the afternoon handlers of the bill reached an agreement under which another impending battle over the navy's cruiser an agreement under which another impending battle over the navy's cruiser strength was postponed until tomorrow. The conflict will center about determination of several members to that no appropriation be made now for construction of three cruisers already authorized by congress.

The ships in dispute are part of eight light cruisers voted in 1924. Two of them are nearing completion and appropriations have been made to start three more. In addition. Chairman Butler, of the naval committee, has introduced a bill for authorization of ten additional cruisers.

be included in the Spanish zone if Spain is to pacify the tribes which are still antagonistic to foreign rule.

The conference on Tangier is scheduled for Paris at an early date. France and England are opposed to inclusion of the city in the Spanish zone and prefer to have it remain an international port. There is some fear in England that this city, which is directly across the Suez canal from Gibraliar, might be a menace to shipping in the canal if put under Spanish control.

With this paradoxical saying the Pontiff meant that in the eyes of nis church a Christian country is not quite normal if it does not possess a clergy drawn from its own soil. These words gain a larger significance when it is learned that six newly ordained Chinese bishops, passed through Paris the other day and one of them occupied the pulpit where Bossuet and Fenelon once preached. They voiced an almost unanimous sentiment against war. Only the most rabid, red-eared ripsnorter of the horse-marines should be heard objecting to that.

This writer has been through three wars and under his veteran badges his heart beats as strongly against war as that of the most virile Quaker pacifist. The more he sees of war he more he is disposed to agree with Ben Franklin that "there never was a good war or a bad peace." But beside that horror of war he is forced, by the logic of history and present circumstances, to put the dictum of John Adams that "the surest preventive of war is to be prepared for it."

For today, a little more than eight years after the most general and disastrous war the world has ever seen and suffered, the nations are again snarling at each other along the raged edges of a dozen threatening wars.

sure on the teaching faculty has not the time arrived for the creation of smaller colleges which can give more individual attention and offer better religious possibilities? Smaller colleges possess distinctive values which have been repeatedly stated by educational authorities. They offer closer contacts with professors and often generate a healthy intellectual friction in the student body. Social and sporting events are not as likely to predominate among them as they do in some older or larger colleges and universities. Religious culture is stressed by many less known yet excellent centers of higher education, especially in the middle west and the south.

The size and reputation of the larger colleges and universities attract a considerable number of students. Material, equipment, famous teachers and athletic prowess also have their lure for youth's various inclinations.

teachers and atthette phase there have their lure for youth's various inclinations.

Both kinds of the institution in question hold much in common. Unitedly they present anequaled educational facilities the very abundance of which is open to abuse. Nowhere else in the world can young men and women find such a number of diversity of colleges. Their frequency is their peril, unless it expresses the love of knowledge for its own sake which cannot have too many opportunities for its satisfaction. If additional small colleges shall embody the holy passion of the scholar by all means let them be built.

But their benefit, like that of the larger ones, depends on the individual. when one of their own wins a victory on the aviation field, as was the case with the man who won the Schneider cup in New York recently.

And that this new efficiency is appreciated abroad becomes evident by the fact that the British government decided only last week to embark the British mails for India at Brindisi and no longer at Marseilles. In the official communique from London, explaining the change, it was said that the postoffice department could place the most implicit reliance on the exactitude of Italian railway service.

Such incidents cause far more satisfaction in Italy than artistic achievements. When I was in Rome, the newspapers were putting out extraeditions and everybody was talking about the great invention of a new steamship motor which will enable the ship to reach a velocity of $4 miles per hour, a rate which will put a ship within three days and a half out of Naples in New York harbor. Though it was said that the government was retaining the utmost secrecy about the technical construction of the new motors, the news was apparently too good to be kept quiet.

I understand that the keels of two ships that will be capable of this extraordinary speed have been laid and that they will make their maiden voyage within the next year and a half.

Sheriff W. E. Tyler, of Irwin coun-

hearing before Governor Walker that Sligh carried insurance policies on his life amounting to $37,000 with double indemnity in the case of accidental death. Sheriff Tyler expressed the belief that the body found in the ruins after the fire was not that of a goat, as charged by insurance companies, but really was a human torso. He expressed the opinion that the body had been obtained from some medical institution.

Bones Interred.

After the fire the supposed body was buried by the widow of the dead man, the funeral being held in Seneca. S. C., where Sligh formerly resided and where his grandparents live.

Insurance companies became suspicious of the fire and began investigation which led to the filing of charges of arson against Sligh. Sheriff Tyler expressed the belief that the man held at Los Angeles is Sligh. He advanced the theory that Sligh walked from his home to Tifton at midnight after the fire. He said Sligh moved to his Irwin county home about three years ago and at that time had $125,000 in cash. He lost $60,000 in a warehouse fire which burned a large number of automobiles on which no insurance was carried. He also is said to have lost money in farming speculations.

Sheriff W. E. Tyler, of Irwin county, after obtaining requisition papers at the office of Governor Clifford Walker for the return of Harry K. Sligh, former Irwin county business man charged with arson, left Atlanta Thursday afternoon for Los Angeles, Calif., to obtain custody of the accused man. Sligh is charged with burning his home near Fitzgerald and placing the body of a goat in the house to pass for a body supposed to be his own so that his wife could collect insurance policies covering his life.

Although it was reported to Sheriff Tyler that Sligh had agreed to return to Georgia without extradition, the sheriff decided to swear out the papers in case it developed that Sligh would fight. It was stated at the hearing before Governor Walker that Sligh carried insurance policies on his life amounting to $37.000 with double indemnity in the case of accidental death. Clark in Brilliant Half-Hour Struggle

Washburn and Mondt Stage Rough Exhibition-Either Would Make Daviscourt Resemble Nun in Disguise, Hawkins Says.

Any claim that the hefty Mr. Lewis may have to the heavyweight wrestling crown was not in any way jeopardized in his match Thursday night at city auditorium with Cliff Binkley, Ohio grappler, who was easy prey for the Strangler.

scissors in two minutes and 55 seconds. It was a disappointin, match from the standpoint of the spectntors who numbered something over 2,000. Binkley may be a great match for a man his size but the great weight of Lewis coupled with his much-touted wrestling ability made the fracas very lop-sided. The lighter Binkley could not keep the Strangler in any hold longer than a few seconds and the latter's gruelling headlock, which is his stock in trade since his favorite but murderous strangle hold was barred, was too much for the Ohioan.

There was but one saving feature of the main event. It was a poor match from the standpoint of wrest ling competition but it certainly was not "framed," in which case the Strangler would have played with his foe a little longer.

Mondt Outpointed.

The card was saved by the preliminary events. That is the folks who like their wrestling mixed with fighting—and from the amount of noise which issued from the bleachers, we would judge they do—liked the last preliminary in which Toodts Mondt, the Colorado cowboy, and Jack Washburn fought and pummeled each other for a solid hour without a fall. The match was as even as the main event

Following the match an examination by Dr. M. D. Arnold revealed that Binkley had suffered an injury believed to be a broken rib, the break having been sustained during the first four minutes of the match, according to John Contos, promoter.

Lewis took the first fall in seven minutes and 50 seconds with his famous headlock and came back to cop the second decision with a double arm scissors in two minutes and 55 seconds. ORANGE DISC MAKES CITY LOOP RECORD

In a game featured by fouling and substitutions, the Knights of Columbus overpowered the Georgia Rail way and Power company's quintet, 33 to 19. The Gulf Refining company's smooth running five ran up the largest score of the season, Thursday in defeating Atlanta and Lowry, 73 to 33. Terra Cotta won the opening game on the Atlantic club court by a 30 to 7 score over the Atlantic Steel aggregation. A capacity audience witnessed the three games in the City league.

for a solid hour without a fall. The match was as even as the main event was uneven and neither had much advantage at wrestling. Washburn took a shade in the infighting, making a great play with his elbows on the rather or rotund plexus of the erstwhile cowboy but the few holds that the pair managed to get between spells of fighting were not sufficiently deadly to mean extermination.

Mondt started the rough stuff and he found more than his match in Washburn. The match made the former efforts of one "Rough Richard" Daviscourt look like a game of drop the handkerchief at a Sunday school social. Believe it or not these two giants made Daviscourt look like a nun in disguise and withal they exhibited considerable knowledge of wrestling. That is to say—when Mondt grabbed a toe, Washburn grabbed a toe and the match ended after an hour of perspiring endeavor with each wrestler in the fond embrace of the other. Sort of a duet headlock as it were,

Both of these men are good wrestlers and possessed of great j-bysical strength but they mixed a bit too much rough stuff in the match to suit some folks. They probably would have continued for many another hour if they had been given the opportunity but they had to be satisfied with one short hour of bruising and grunting.

Both teams, Furman with a completely revamped lineup than that presented in its close struggle with the Jewish Progressive club Tuesday night, played carelessly and the Furmanites kept the referee calling their practice of walking with the ball.

The Fort basketeers fought back gamely in the second half, considering their showing in the first, but apparently could never get started and Funderburke, Beasley and Bentz continued their shooting for 20 additional points during this frame.

HAWK-EYE-ING GRANT PARK WINS FROM

Hectic Cage Year Looms.

Making predictions about basketball at this early date would be something more than unsafe for the predictor but to say that Atlanta's dependent teams promise to show their usual type of winning basketball this year is not a statement to be contradicted in the face of early events.

We have had a chance to see the A. A. C. team, the J. P. C. outfit and the Y. M. C. A. aggregation in action and each of these teams has exhibited its usual power.

The J. P. C. cagers looked fairly good against the Wofford gang but their closer victory over Furman was a greater index of their ability. The defeat of Tech by the Athletic club athletes attested to the strength of the latter and the Y. M. C. A. triumph over the strong Nashville. Ramblers gives the "Y" bunch something to brag about.

The defeat of Tech at the hands of the A. A. C. gives the latter outfit a good bone to chew on for a few days. The Techsters are not weak though they have not had a successful season thus far from the standpoint of games won. There have been stronger teams at Tech but they have a powerful scoring machine and the fact that the A. A. C. guards succeeded in cutting down the monstrous Hearn is a feather in the caps of the safety men. The showing of these three teams thus far means that an epic scrap is in store when any pair of them meets on the floor.

This time the price offered by Tex could not be met by Fugazy and Tunney will work for the czar of promoting. Another victory for Baxter Maddox, vice president, thanked Mr. Allen for his address, and Jaycees were provided with entertainment by Miss Janet Kelly and Miss Hazel Jones, who gave specialty dance numbers.

Announcement was made of the next meeting which is to be the annual "Thrift Luncheon." by the purchasing committee of city council.

This storage tank would save the city approximately $800 annually on state gasoline taxes and would permit the city to furnish fire trucks and pumps with the high grade of gasoline they require, it was said. Ben Carlton, secretary of the fire department, appeared before the committee and requested it to authorize purchase of highest-grade gasoline to "bridge the department over until some solution of the problem of storage is found."

The committee granted the request, ASTRONOMICAL GROUP

Hn Hnnouncement of special interest to every business man

Two famous names in the office equipment field united. Now-combined sales and service. The General Office pany, announces that Elliott-Fisher has acquired the assets and business of the Sundstrand Corporation.

For years, both Elliott-Fisher and Sundstrand have bent their efforts to increase the business man's profits by lowering his cost of doing business.

For more than thirty-five years Elliott-Fisher Company has been actively engaged in designing, manufacturing and marketing Elliott-Fisher Accounting-Writing Machines. Today thousands of Elliott-Fisher machines, utilizing the flat writing surface principle, are used throughout the world.

The Sundstrand Corporation has been a factor of rapidly increasing importance in the adding, subtracting, calculating, bookkeeping and cash register machine field for ten years. Every Sundstrand machine is equipped with the famous 10-Key speed keyboard. Sundstrand products are also used throughout the world.

Elliott-Fisher

Division

Mr. P. D. Wagoner, President of Elliott-Fisher Com- Equipment Corporation, as distributor, through its Elliott-Fisher and Sundstrand divisions, will market all Elliott-Fisher and Sundstrand products. This corporation, a subsidiary of Elliott-Fisher Company, has for some time been the largest distributor of Elliott-Fisher products in foreign countries. Its officers are the same men who have been associated with the company's activities in the past.

The union of the Elliott-Fisher and Sundstrand organizations will further greatly improve their present prompt and thorough service. The successful policies, the management in general, and the efficient personnel heretofore engaged in the design, manufacture and marketing of the well-known Elliott-Fisher and Sundstrand products, will be retained.

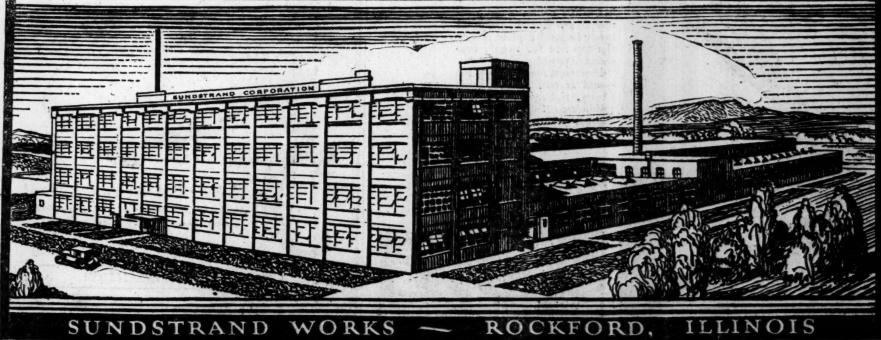

The affiliation of Elliott-Fisher and Sundstrand, and the distributing facilities of the General Office Equipment Corporation, will enable these companies to render a still more valuable and indispensable service to the Business Public.

Washington, January 6.—Representative Frear, republican, of Wisconsin, whose charges last winter against the Indian bureau resulted in an investigation by a house committee, renewed his attack today by inserting in the Congressional Record a review of a summer's tour of Indian reservations which disclosed, he says, "starvation, meedless deaths, kidnaping, highway robbery and criminal mistreatment of American Indians and Indian tribes."

says, "starvation, needless deaths, kidnaping, highway robbery and criminal mistreatment of American Indians and Indian tribes."

Approximately 225.000 Indians, Mr. Frear asserts, are "completely helpless" in the hands of the Indian bureau and are "deprived of constitutional rights and privileges enjoyed by all citizens."

"More serious than any property rights unjustly taken from these American citizens," declared Mr. Frear, "the Indian bureau, through its ageats and $10 a month Indian judges appointed by the agents, illegally and despotically, without warrant of law, arrests and imprisons, sometimes with ball and chain, Indians who are deprived of rights of attorney, jury, ball, appeal to any court, or constitutional privileges possessed and exercised by every other American citizen."

He quoted Roosevelt as having said in his annual message to congress in 1902 that there should be no halt in the work of building up the navy, as having believed in the eighteenth amendment, and advocated the direct primary, as advocated by Vice President Dawes, "would not have made much headway in the lifetime of Roosevelt," he said.

"Theodore Roosevelt, if he had been dive," Fish added, "would certainly have aroused public opinion in behalf of civic righteousness against the wholesale corruption in the recent primary elections, regardless whose head was hurt."

Austin, Texas, January 6.—(P)—
Fears that the position accorded a minister as a man of God will weigh against his rights as an ordinary man when he is tried for murder were expressed tonight by Dayton Moses, of counsel for Rev. J. Frank Norris, whose trial for the slaying of Dexter Elliott Chipps will start, here Monday. Too much is expected of a minister, he declared.

"There is something in the human which holds that a minister and his acts should be measured by a uigher spiritual standard than those of ordinary men. Law and reason place a preacher in no such position." the attorney said. "When he faces the bar of justice he is as other men—no better and no worse. The law says he has as much right to self defense as anyone else."

Dr. Norris has indicated several times that his defense will be self defense and that he thought Chipps was armed. No weapon was found on Chipps after he was shot three times in the church office.

Moses prepared tonight to begin an examination of the list of 500 special veniremen which will be available to him tomorrow, with the object of weeding out those who may have prejudged the case.

Dr. Norris is expected to arrive Sunday with a number of witnesses. Austin, Texas, January 6 .- (A) today by attorneys for both parties. Counsel for Mrs. Cady announced that suit had been filed in circuit court here recently claiming that the divorce decree, granted in September, 1925, was obtained by Comstock through fraudulent statements. First claim that the decree was illegal was made last summer by the then Mrs. Comstock when the engagement of Comstock to Peggy Hopkins Joyce was announced here. This engagement soon announced here. This engagement soon afterwards was terminated abruptly by Miss Joyce.

The bill stated briefly that Comstock falsely represented that he had been a resident of Florida for two years. The bill also charged that Comstock gave his wife's address as Cleveland instead of Chicago. Mrs. Comstock in the bill, said she was destitute and asked for temporary alimony of $100 a month, and petitioned further that the divorce decree be set aside.

DR. NORRIS FEARS POSITION MAY HURT CHANCES AT TRIAL

INSTALLMENT XXIX.

CARILLON TELLS HER STORY.

Possibly there were more in the bandit band than Bengal had thought. And there could be no question of their armament. Also he had noticed another awning spread over the after part of the cabin cruiser, not slung but lying loose. There might be a one pounder under that.

Bengal crept into the sandy floored recess where he had placed Carillon. He seated himself with his back against the rock, invisible from the entrance to the place. He did not mean to sleep, but merely to relax profoundly for a few moments, to ease down the muscular and nervous tensions of the past few hours, that they might better take up what strains might be ahead. But he had not properly estimated the tremendous output of physical and nervous energy already expended, and the crying demand of complete repose. His head pitched forward, chin on chest. Sleep descended on him like a tropic shower.

Bengal may be severely criticized for relaxing his vigilance at all in a moment of such critical danger, and when under such responsibility.

His defense would be appreciated by a sailor, or campaigner of experience. The normal human can function vigorously and keenly only for so long, without a brief interval of repose. Lacking this, his senses become dulled, so that if a long and silent night watch is required, his perceptions will not remain alert and he may be the victim of a stealthy surprise attack. Nothing so endangers a camp as drowsy sentries, even when these are actually awake.

Moreover, Bengal had good reason to feel infinite confidence in certain gifts of his India birthright. These included a sense of orientation such as the lower animals and some few humans possess. Having fixed a certain compass bearing in his head, located it in the celestial arc. he could bear constantly in that direction without the aid of sun or stars, in fair weather and foul. He knew instinctively what persons were to be trusted, and those who were not. Waking or sleeping he possessed a singularly accurate sense of elapsed time. And most of all, he had learned to depend on that subliminal control which never sleeps to rouse him at the near presence of any danger, whether of animal or elemental sort, an enemy or a hard squall making up, a burglar in the house or a fire smouldering from a shirt circuit under the wainscotting.

In the present case he reasoned also that the enemy would be chary about venturing into such a watery lair as was here. Irma had been given a sample of his resource and his ruthlessness. For all she and the others with her knew he might have set his trap and be waiting hopefully

But what he had failed to reckon with sufficiently was his overwhelming fatigue and the intensely hypnotic effect of that warm, humid air, the soothing murmur of the ripples on the beach, and the fact that he

With his shoulders resting against a smooth slab of rock, Bengal slept on. So also did Carillon, who had passed gently from the coma of exhaustion into the restful sleep of childhood. No doubt if some pressing danger had actually threatened them, Bengal would have wakened in ing danger had actually threatened them, Bengal would have wakened in time for a bitter defense. But it did not. His subconsciousness mind may have whispered to him: "All is well. Not so good as it might be, perhaps, but still good enough for the present. The immediate danger has passed."

Bengal awoke with a start and glanced down at Carillon. She was sleeping lightly now, her breathing soft and gentle.

It did not need the greater depth of shadow in the place to tell Bengal that he had been guilty of a long lance of active consciousness. He rose.

that he had been guilty of a long lapse of active consciousness. He rose and peered over the sheltering rampart of rock. Nothing was to be seen but very soft azure sky and clear water of a pale topaz greenish blue.

His movement roused Carillon. She looked up, dazedly at first and then as her eyes rested on Bengal with a flood of returning conscious-"Bungle-what's happened? Where are we?"

With his soul singing anthems of thanksgiving and praise to the Lord for this miracle, Bengal answered: "Waiting for Rigel to come back with a party and raise the siege, my dear. How do you feel?"

"Hungry. Those brutes tried to starve me into signing a confession that I stole Mrs. Ransome's jewels. Even worse, the one they called Tony wouldn't let me sleep. One of them was detailed to keep urging me to write a statement. If I kept silent or got drowsy they slapped and pinched me, and pulled my hair. Irma was the worse—"
"The third degree. Tony understood the workings of that from personal experience. Do you remember my bringing you here?"

"Only in spots. I must have been all in——" She sudden She suddenly became aware of her dismantled state. "Mercy, I'm nearly naked—" A rosy color flooded her face. "What's happened to my dress—?" "It was torn to ribbons when you tried to run away through the thorn bushes. I made Irma use the rags to bandage the cuts."

"I remember something about that. Where is she?"
"I wish I knew. Keep down behind the rock, Carillon. There may

"I wish I knew. Keep down behind the rock, Carillon. There may be somebody waiting for a chance to snipe us."
She sank back, then looked up at him and laughed. Again Bengal's soul rejoiced. Here was the cool indomitable Carillon back again.
"Tell me all that happened, from the start," he said.
"It's like a bad dream, Bungle. We were just finishing dinner nad the yacht drifting along with a light easterly breeze. Gran wanted to make the run under sail alone. Professor Brookes had told us that it was his birthday, so we were having a little party, champagne and everything. I'd put on my prettiest gown, next to nothing, as it was so hot, and—" she hesitated. Bengal, glancing at her face, was puzzled at the curious expression in her clear, greenish eyes.

"And what?" he asked, gently.
"My—my Jewels. The few I had aboard. I—I shouldn't have done that, after what had happened. Well, just as Gran was proposing a little toast to Calvin Brookes the steward reported that there was a fast motorboat coming up, and that it looked like an American rum chaser, or some other official craft. Gren said he didn't see what an American coastguard vessel would be doing off the Bahamas, unless it was to spot rum runners and report them as on the way. But we all trooped up to see."

"Without taking any precautions for defense?"
"Why yes. She looked like an official boat, a patrol or commissioner's launch or something of the sort. As she drew closer in we saw that she was trim and smart, and there was a burly man in a blue uniform standing by the wheel. He saluted and said respectfully that he would have to come aboard and look over our papers, as some jewel thieves were reported to have escaped from Bermuda in a yacht that answered the description of ours.

"Clever," Bengal muttered.
"Yes, wasn't it? Granville thought of course that Mrs. Ransome had decided to reopen the case against me, and he scarcely knew whether to be furious or frightened. I could see that he wasn't sure but that I had stolen them, after all. They laid the boat alongside, for the sea was like a millpond, and this man with four others came aboard. The moment I saw these others I said to Gran that there was something fishy about the business, but it was too late for us to do anything. They were all armed.

They trooped below, and then—" Carillon's voice hardened, "they found

Mrs. Ransome's jewels."
"Where?"
"In the box springs of my bunk. It's a real French bed." "Who put them there?"

"Can't you guess?"

Bengal nodded. "Yes. Irma did, that evening she and Mrs. Ransome

There is no doubt that a big fight is starting, for the American syndicate is determined to grab the Wolseley company at any price and the Morris interests are just as determined to obtain control. Already a big syndicate is preparing to flood the British market with cheap light cars and if Mr. Turner's outfit gets the Wolseley works and does the same thing the Morris company will be severely hit, as it is the leader in the cheap-car field in England. New York, January 6.—(R)—An early decline in the cotton market today was followed by rallies, March selling up from 12.72 to 12.89 and closing at 12.85. The general market today at 12.85. The general market closed steady at net advances of 4 to 7 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of 1 to 6 points in response to be a little more southern selling here early, and local selling appeared to be a little more southern selling here early, and local selling appeared to be promoted by reports that the recent improvement in weather conditions was being followed by a somewhat increased movement of cotton from the fields to interior markets.

Early offerings were absorbed on the decline to 12.55 for January and 12.92 for May, however, or about 8 to 10 points below yesterday's closing quotations, and the market steadied up later. There was very little indication of southern selling here afternoon the price level was 18 points above the lows and 9 points above the previous close. While the market eased off a little in the last hour on some profit-taking, the market rallied again near the end almost to the highs and closed at net was moderately active today and prices showed an up-wide tender. "I am convinced," he continued,
"that southern localities with their magnificent endowment of natural advantages and with the inspiring attude of southern leaders, will show a forward and upward movement that will astonish those who have not been in touch with the underlying trends."

Mr. Babson commented on the fact that until a comparative recent time almost everything bought by the people of the south for, their own use was brought in from other territory.
Now, he said, there is a growing tendency on the part of manufacturers to establish plants near their natural markets. The warm climate and lower living costs were ascribed as among the reasons for the movement southward of industrial plants.

Among other factors cited by Mr.
Brabson as contributing to the progress of the south were: Cotton now represents less than 8 per cent of the of the agricultural income. Savings

Savings deposits in the south increased 258 per cent between 1913 and 1925 as compared with an increase in the entire country of 170 per cent. Wenlth increased 440 per cent between 1896 and 1922 as compared with an increase of 390 per cent for the entire country. Since 1900 the consumption of cotton by southern mills has increased 95 per cent as compared with an increased 95 per cent of the picture, while the Fox-Case system photographs the sound waves on the film and reproduction converts the light waves into a sound. Both systems utilize recording units controlled by Western Electric corporation.

With Pan-American selling off rather sharply in reflection of the turn of affairs in Mexico, the action of the domestic oil shares was isdicative of a good underlying recorded in that group, it was noteworthy that large blocks of the better regarded domestics changed hands within a narrow range. Buying doubtless is based on the logical assumption that any interruption of on stocks of domestic producers. In addition there was a revival of gossip of promlarge outlook for favorable dividend action by several companies. Mid-Continent Pete

Although the speculative community was atceped in gloom, nothing happened in today's session to justify the prevailing pessimism. Stocks generally behaved well, putting forth stubborn resistence to professional efforts to bring about lower prices, and in going of the stubborn resistence to professional efforts to bring about lower prices, and in going of the stubborn resistence to professional efforts to bring about lower prices, and in the sale was dropped to $4$ at noon. Until today the 5 per cent had held unchanged sisce the day before Christmas. Trading fell off in volume due to the feeling of uncertainty about the market's immediate outlook. But when the bears tried to make capital out of the apathy existing in the constructive camp, they found that important liquidation was not forthcoming.

The directors are expected by those now buying the stock to increase the dividend at the March meeting. Last March the regular dividend rate was increased from $4 to $6 with an extra $2 declared. The company is expected to show over $15 a share for the stock earned in 1926 against $11 for 1925.

There has been buying in Southern Railway in spots recently suggesting that something favorable to the stock was ahead. In absence of any definite information speculative Wall street has jumped to the conclusion that the dividend is going to be increased from $6 to $7. Southern Railway evidently has turned the conner but the stock cannot be called a seasoned 7 per cent payer. Moreover the company's current earnings are not showing up well. For December there is a decrease in gross earnings of $1,438,00. This loss in gross is partly due to the back kick from cotton and partly to the slump in Florida compared with a year ago.

Corn trading displayed increased activity with big speculators among the chief buyers. Word that European corn-borers was already in the heart of the Illinois corn belt furnished a new incentive to purchase and heart of the Illinois corn belt furnished a new incentive to purchase and soon gave a decided lift to the market. On the bulge, however, much selling to realize profits developed. A best prices were not maintained. Aside from the westward spread of the corn-borer, trade leaders contended that corn is on the bargain counter at prices far below a comparison with any other commodity. Receipts of corn, it was pointed out, have been ter at prices far below a comparison with any other commodity. Receipts of corn, it was pointed out, have been much under expectation, and predictions were renewed that Chicago arrival. vals of corn this season would be the smallest ever known.

Roosevelt Reconciliation T. R.'s LETTER PRINTED ON ANNIVERSARY With Foraker Revealed

New York, January 6.—(P)—A letter from former President Roosevelt to former Senator Joseph B. Foraker, attesting their reconciliation was printed today—the eighth anniversary of Roosevelt's death—in a copyrighted article by Robert H. Davis in the New York Sun.

As indicating that few persons had learned of the settlement of the famous disagreement between the two originating at a Gridiron club dinner in Washington years before, Mr. Davis quotes William Loeb, Roosevelt's secretary, and Elibu Root, his secretary of state and intimate friend, as declaring they had not known of it.

The letter, dated Oyster Bay. June 28, 1916, said Roosevelt had read Foraker's "two volumes" with great interest and added:

"Of course, there are certain portions as to which you and I will continue to differ, but if I ever get the chance to speak in public, I shall elaborate what I said in speaking of you in the libel suit.

"Not only do I admire your entire" the bill, but I also grew steadily more and more to realize your absolute Americanism, and your capacity for generosity and disinterestedness.

"There is no use in raking up the past now, but there were some things told me against you, or in reference to you, which (when I consider what I know now of my informants). would have carried no weight with me at the time had I been as well informed as at present.

"If you are ever in this neighborhood I wish you would let me know, and come down for lunch or dinner. I have some questions I wish to ask you about the battie of Chickamauga, this being in connection with the work of a cousin of mine, now dead, a man named Grate."

"A copy of the letter, in possession of Mr. Loeb, was sent by him to Mr. Root and brought this characteristic in the libel suit.

"Of course, there are certain portions as to which you and I will continue to differ, but if I ever get the chance to speak in public, I shall elaborate what I said in speaking of the liber and more

FATTY ARBUCKLE DIRECTS COMEDY MOTION PICTURES

Hollywood, Calif., January 6 .- Ros coe ("Fatty") Arbuckle, who passed out of the big money in moving pictures in 1921, when he was twice tried for manslaughter in connection with the death of Virginia Rappe, has returned to the big money under an ar-sumed name.

Arbuckle, whose career collapsed when he was one of the highest paid of all actors, has returned as a well-remunerated director of comedies, working under a contract with one of the biggest companies, but has dropped his own name and assumed the name of William Goodrich.

latter is the name in his con-The latter is the name in his contract which stipulates that Fatty must completely submerge his own name and identity as Roscoe Arbuckle. The picture he is directing is entitled "Special Delivery" and stars Eddie Cantor as the principal character; Jobyna Ralston and William Powell. Arbuckle does no acting in the picture.

AMERICAN FIRMS CAUGHT IN WAR OF MEAT PACKERS

London, January 6 .- A meat war already costing approximately $50 .-000,000 and involving the Swift Packing company and the Armour Packing company of the United States may be terminated by a tentative agreement between the two American concern and the Vestey packing interests While a representative of the Eng-lish firm denied to the United News tonight that an agreement had been effected, the Evening Standard said that negotiations had proceeded far enough to predict a general settlement later.

The Standard points out that agreement between the three large firms is only the initial step, as fire the only the initial step, as five other companies must agree on division of the trade before the price cutting fight can end. The five other firms include the Smithfield and Argentine companies, and both of these have refused thus far to agree to the place of sections.

hus far to agree to the plan of set The tentative agreement is said to pportion a certain percentage of the rade claimed by all three companies beach one. The present difficulty has to do with the proportion that shall be given to the five other companies. They declare that the trade now offered them is not sufficient for their continued existence.

Erlanger Theater.

"The Big Parade" was awarded the Photoplay Magazine gold medal for the best motion picture produced during 1925 as the result of the annual national contest. From present indications this picture will also have the honor of the longest continuous Broadway run as the engagement at the Astor theater should continue until next summer. The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production is the sixth picture to receive the highest honor of the motion picture fans since this award was created. Starting in 1920, the successive awards have been to "Humoresque," "Tol'ble David," "Robin Hood," "The Covered Wagon," "Abraham Lincoln," and now "The Big Parade," which will complete its engagement at the Erlanger theater, Saturday, "Which will complete its engagement at the Erlanger theater, Saturday.

Al Tucker's "society orchestra," which is appearing at the new Keith-Georgia theater the week, presents several novelties in their musical program concluding with a stirring por-trayal of a fire alarm. Motion pic-tures of the 11re appartus starting to the scene of tl- fire, the bells and sirens, the smoke and the confusion incidental to all fires are treated with a realism seldom produced on the stage. The music and the effects produced make it an act of exceptional merit. "The Old Soak," featured on the screen, continues to hold attention and much favorable comment is heard regarding the production.

Howard Theater.

It is doubtful if even Warner Fabian anticipated the tremendous popularity of his latest novel, "Summer Bachelors," which is playing at the Howard theater this week. Allen Dwan directed the picture with Madge Bellamy in the leading role. Lest there be a doubt in the minds of some wives that their husbands do not play while they are away, as pictured in "Summer Bachelors," let them see this satirically instructive and always amusing photodrama. The title of the picture is "The Ridin' Rascal" and the star is none other than the fast-moving young star, Art Acord. The picture is a whirlwind of action and thrills, moves at a fast clip from start to finish and is exceedingly entertaining.

West End Theater. Speaking of picture casts, the Alan Crosland Paramount picture, "Sinners in Heaven," which is playing for the last times today at the Tenth Street theater, includes a list of prominent theater, includes a list of prominent names that go to make up a truly all-star cast. Bebe Daniels and Richard Dix are featured in the principal roles of the production, which is an adaptation of the famous story of the same name by Clive Arden. The strong supporting cast includes Holmes Herbert, Montague Love, Effie Shannon and Marcia Harris and others.

Installs New Officers

Tremendous strides of the medical profession within the past decade were reviewed Thursday night in addresses by prominent physicians at the annual banquet of the Fulton County Medical society at the Athletic club. Highlights of the advance in Atlanta include the fact that where keen professional jealousy and internal strife existed in the early days of the medical association, today there is harmony and peace, coupled with a fine spirit of cooperation.
